The Carontawan
1962

Mansfield State College
Mansfield, Pennsylvania

Foreword

In preparing the 1962 CARONTAWAN, the aim has been to picture the various campus buildings which will one day become symbols for the recollection of your days spent at Mansfield. As you turn through its pages now and in future years, it is hoped you will be guided in your fond recollections to relive the happy moments of your college days.

Administration

Dear Class of 1962,

The end of the school year brings a feeling of mixed emotions. There is a sense of relief that the pressures of the term give way to the pleasant days of summer. Now we can analyze the results of the past year and plan for the year ahead. In addition, there will be many opportunities for vacation and relaxation.

On the other hand, there is the recognition that we will be seeing the entire class of 1962 together for the last time. This will also be the last time we will see some individual members of the class because the ravages of time, distance, and circumstance now begin their processes.

Personally, I have strong feelings as the class of 1962 leaves Mansfield. There is not so much a sense of relief that the 1961-62 term is over as there is pleasant anticipation of the approaching summer—I have never been one to dwell long on the past. However, I do dislike to say, "Goodbye," to the class of 1962. This is because I know so many of you intimately and have been interested in your future, your hopes, and your dreams. And, I might say, that the interest has been reciprocal.

For this reason, suppose we agree that we will not say "Goodbye." Instead, you should feel free to return to Mansfield, if ever, and whenever, you wish. Perhaps you will want to do just that at times when you are:

"Fevered with the Sunset
Fretful with the Bay
When the wanderlust is on you
And you long for old Cathay."

I say this because some day you will be greatly surprised to make the discovery that the many things you seek have really been close to you all the time—and not on some far away horizon.

Sincerely,

Lewis W. Rathgeber
President

DR. BERNARD BAUM

Dean of Instruction

Throughout his entire college career the student is academically directed by policies administered through the office of the Dean of Instruction. Student records and transcripts as well as faculty records are maintained here and in the Registrar's office. The functions of registration and scheduling of classes are coordinated by this office. The Dean is responsible for the organization and administration necessary to meet the curriculum requirements formulated by the Board of State College Presidents and the certification requirements established by the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction and the State Council of Education. In cooperation with department heads, this office has an academic advisory program and also directs a program honoring students of high academic achievement.

DR. MICHAEL ANELLO
B.S., Seton Hall University;
M.A., Cornell University;
Ph.D., Cornell University

Assistant Dean of Instruction

THOMAS E. GODWARD
B.A., M.A., New York State College
for Teachers at Albany

Dean of Students

The office of the Dean of Students serves as the co-ordinating center for the students, the faculty, and the administration. The Dean meets with members of the student body on matters varying from student aid and employment to assistance in securing scholarships, fellowships, and assistant instructorships for those who wish to go on to graduate study. Many long hours are spent with the Budget Committee in the deliberation necessary to provide the best in assemblies, feature series programs, athletics, campus movies, and Hut facilities.

MISS MOLLIE BORWICK
B.S., Bridgewater State Teachers College;
M.A., P.D., Columbia University

Acting Dean of Women

From the office of the Dean of Women comes the direction and careful supervision of women students living in North Hall. The Deans are interested in creating an atmosphere conducive to the best emotional and social development of each student. Concern for the financial welfare of women students is shown and help is provided for those interested in employment.

Efforts are constantly made to further the interests of all women students on campus.

MRS. DOROTHY MILLWARD
B.S., Bucknell University;
M.S., Bucknell University

Assistant Dean of Women

THOMAS COSTELLO
B.S., Shippensburg; M.S., Bucknell University

Dean of Men

The Dean of Men is concerned with the welfare of men dormitory students. He supervises the South Hall Dormitory Council and the recreational facilities of the men students. Wearing his other hat, he is advisor for veterans, student government associations, N.D.E.A., and student union committees. The Dean has discovered that the chief function of his office is counseling.

LEON E. LUNN
B.S., Mansfield; M.Ed., St. Bonaventure

Dean of Admissions

In the course of his duties, the Dean of Admissions makes frequent trips to area high schools to counsel with administrators and high school students. Prospective students become acquainted with college requirements and pleasures through the helpful efforts of his office. The Dean, in co-operation with the Admissions Committee, makes major decisions regarding the students who will be added to the college roster each year. As the enrollment increases, the problems increase, and it becomes more and more difficult to assure that a college education will become a reality for all who seek the opportunity.

DR. RICHARD WILSON
B.S., Mansfield; M.Ed., Ed.D., Pennsylvania State University

Director of Student Teaching and Placement

The Director of Student Teaching and Placement has the never-ending responsibility of guiding the Mansfield State College student to a position in the world of education. His job is two-fold: He serves as the main force in placing graduating seniors, and he serves as guidance counselor to all undergraduate student teachers. The Director's office is constantly receiving phone calls and letters from high schools in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York, and his bulletin boards are covered with notices of positions available. Because of his many efforts in their behalf, the graduating seniors may leave M.S.C. reasonably assured of a teaching position.

THEODORE SPENTZAS
B.S., Mansfield

Business Manager

The Office of the Business Manager bears the responsibility of managing the financial matters of the college. Included are the development of long-range planning, direction of non-instructional personnel, and procurement of necessary supplies. The primary concern of the Business Office is the expansion of the school facility program.

D. Kreger, M. Brown, L. Rehbein, J. Palmer, L. Crittenden
BUSINESS OFFICE STAFF

Director of Public Relations

The office of the Director of Public Relations for the college assists with administrative details and governs the release of publicity items covering sports and other special campus events. Flashes to all area newspapers come from this office. Notices are sent to home-town newspapers announcing special accomplishments of individual students. In addition, this office supervises the production of the College Catalog, brochures, and quarterlies. Two vital publications benefiting from the services of this office are The Password, a student handbook, and The Mansfieldian, an alumni bulletin.

It is the basic purpose of the Education Department to provide a sound, professional education for teachers who will become leaders in the world in which they are preparing to participate —the schools and communities of which they will become a vital part.

Both a challenge and a responsibility are found in the effort to provide experience in learning and an education for individual excellence through the services of the public school teacher. In order to prepare students for the task before them, their program includes not only academic subjects and methods courses but also opportunities for observation of actual classes in session. Also, students participate in teaching as a part of their professional course and, as they progress, do practice teaching under the direct supervision of qualified master teachers at the Campus Elementary School or under the supervision of cooperating supervisors in selected public schools.

The challenge to education in this world of growing crisis demands the services of professional, dedicated teachers.

Health and physical education does not begin and end with the athlete on the basketball court or the playing field. This is but one of the many capacities of this area of education.

In fulfillment of its other duties, health and physical education generates loyalty, develops character, and promotes sportsmanship. It provides wholesome recreation and gives a student the opportunity to develop understanding and skill so that he may enjoy a balanced life, being able to work well with others.

At Mansfield the degree of Bachelor of Science in Home Economics Education is granted upon completion of the requirements of the curriculum. This entitles the graduate to teach and to supervise vocational home economics and general home economics in the junior and senior high schools.

The program includes courses in general and professional education and in the area of specialized study. One semester during the senior year is devoted to student teaching in a high school home economics department. Another culminating activity is the experience of living as a family group in the home management apartment.

Members of the department are eligible to belong to Omicron Gamma Pi, a student organization affiliated with the American Home Economics Association, and Alpha Beta Chapter of Kappa Omicron Phi, a national home economics honorary, located in Mansfield.

Director Department of Science and Mathematics

EDWARD ZADOROZNY
B.S., M.S., University of Pittsburgh

The Department of Science and Mathematics was formulated in February of 1960. Since that time, the Department has moved forward with increasing momentum.

As part of its forward movement, the Department of Science and Mathematics is participating in the Troy High School seminar for exceptional students in science and mathematics. In addition, from our campus, outstanding students in mathematics competed in the annual William Lowell Putnam Mathematical Competition sponsored by Kent State University this fall.

The department is in the process of evaluating and reorganizing its curriculum to include pre-professional courses. The present curriculum is also being strengthened in order to facilitate the entrance of our students into graduate school. This year the department scheduled evening classes and Saturday morning classes.

The Science and Mathematics Department is striving to present its subject matter in a manner that is fully adaptable to the interests, the capacities, and the personal needs of the students for teaching as well as for other areas of scientific endeavor. The Department's aim is to offer a liberal and ever-expanding education in the fields of science and mathematics.

The history of the Department of Social Science at Mansfield offers an interesting illustration of the growth of the college as a broad modern educational institution. As one of the units created when the "secondary" area of study was divided a few years ago, this department has developed rapidly in the number of majors enrolled, in the range of course offerings, and in its faculty. Some two hundred thirty students are specializing in Social Science and History and an additional group concentrates in Geography, which is associated administratively with the department.

After six months of research and planning by the entire departmental staff, an integrated sequence of four courses in Social Science, normally intended for freshmen and sophomores, was instituted in the fall of 1961. It is designed to lead the student into a soundly critical approach to history; to help him equip himself with an orderly body of information on the cultural growth of European, Asian, and American societies; and to guide him in developing a mature capacity for evaluating the great issues of our day against the background of historical experience. This series of required courses is followed, in the first semester of the junior year, by an elective, "Problems of the Modern World," devoted entirely to a deeper probing into today's crises and their meaning for the future.

Aside from these general courses, the department offers basic studies in American Government, Economics, and Sociology. More advanced electives include Contemporary Economic Problems, State and Local Government, and the Diplomatic History of the United States.

Staff members are active in working with such student organizations as the Geography Clubs, the Mansfield Open Forum and the Intercollegiate Conference on Government. In and out of the classroom, the department seeks to lead the student into a systematic and useful understanding of the challenging world in which we live.

Director of Department of Library Science

DR. RAY VAN NOTE
B.Ed., Eastern Illinois University
A.B.L.S., University of Michigan
M.S., Ph.D., University of Illinois

This has been the first year that the Department of Library Science has been established on Mansfield's campus. Last spring, Mansfield offered its first introductory course in library science. During the summer this one course was expanded into four. In addition to the specialized courses offered, a practical work course in library practice was established. This fall a specialized curriculum was offered to students wishing to major in library science.

The purpose of the department is to train its students in the basic fundamentals that librarians in school, public, or special libraries would be expected to know, stressing a broad background of knowledge applicable to a variety of situations.

Thirty hours study in librarianship courses are required for a major in library science. Particular emphasis is put on academic study and the languages. This year, approximately sixteen students majored in library science. Other students, including practicing teachers and librarians, also are expected to take courses from time to time for accreditation.

Mansfield looks forward to the continued growth of the Library Science Department; this is another step forward in its march for greater educational opportunities.

The Music Department occupies a prominent position at Mansfield. The Department plays a vital role in campus activities: assembly programs: band, orchestra, and chorus concerts: vesper services; recitals: parades: well sings: dances: Grecian sings: and jam sessions.

The training of teachers for the purpose of furthering music disciplines in public schools is the primary aim of the Department. In addition to general education courses, music students are given instruction and practice in harmony, theory, conducting, and orchestration. Valuable experience is provided through individual and class instruction and through participation in various musical groups, instrumental and vocal.

The Department has undergone a change in curriculum which began with this year's freshman class. A major and a minor are now required of each student.

Music organizations present opportunities for a student to put his learning to practice. The opera workshop, chorus, wind ensemble, orchestra, and brass ensemble enhance the cultural environment on campus. Tours made by the wind ensemble and the opera workshop promote public relations for the college as well as provide professional experience for its students.

The aims of the Humanities Department are individual distinction and a more liberal education.

A broader and more varied curriculum has been opened to the Mansfield student. Specializations in a particular field are still being pursued but with more courses required in the liberal arts. The student now has a wider range from which to choose in languages, literature, drama, speech, and art. This can be done primarily because of the careful adaptations and the modifications that have evolved in the past year.

The members of the Humanities Department offer the courses and themselves to help students develop intellectually and to find enriched, esthetic experience.

Senior Class

Last year the saying was "only one more to go." This year the class of 1962 has completed that "one more year." climaxing four full years which mark an ending. yet a beginning.

Upon graduation. the class of 1962 will leave a lasting impression through their capable leadership and enthusiastic participation in various activities on campus. In athletics, dramatics. government. campus publications. honorary fraternities and sororities. and organizations. they will leave their ideas and ideals for future classes to follow.

The class of 1962 excelled not only in extracurricular activities but in scholastic achievements as well. With sixteen members selected for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. the faculty and student body can be proud of their fine accomplishments.

Many "firsts" were experienced: downtown housing of senior women. a social fraternity. an undefeated basketball team. a championship baseball team. and an all-campus dance with a big name band are just a few.

May the seniors continue to benefit from their varied experiences as they face the future and take their places as loyal citizens useful to their communities and to their nation.

May I have some more?

Some going . . . some coming

And away we go . . .

Cozy covey

Hold fast!

And that's exactly what I said, exactly.

. . . after a day in the mines(oops, minds) . . . of philosophers.

I said, "NOT now."

Student Council

The purposes of the Student Council are to promote the interests and welfare of the students and to stimulate pride in our college. It has the power to create temporary and standing committees, to grant charters to organizations, and to allocate money to organizations from the students' activity fees. Student Council represents the student body in all campus matters. Its responsible members work industriously to effect liason between the administration and the student body.

Board of Presidents

James Toothaker
Chairman

The Board of Presidents, initiated and established in 1959, seeks to create better communications between the Student Council and the other organizations on campus. It acts also as a "fact-finding" committee for Student Council. At present the board is in the process of reorganizing the club and its constitution.

Membership is limited to the presidents of recognized organizations on campus. It is the only organization on campus that does not have a faculty adviser.

Women's Dorm Council

The Women's Dormitory Council governs the largest group on campus, the Women's Dormitory Association. The Council consists of eleven elected women who maintain the standards set up in the dormitory manual, Harmony Hall. North Hall contributes to campus life with such activities as open house, well parties, and a float in the Homecoming Parade.

Men's Dorm Council

The Men's Dormitory Council is responsible for keeping an orderly existence in the dormitory and promoting projects to improve study conditions. Among these projects are the removal of music practice rooms from the dormitory and the transforming of these rooms into study areas. The Council has furnished some of these rooms with typewriters and dictionaries as well as maintaining a library of best-sellers for student use.

This year the men sponsored a dorm weekend, open house, a Homecoming Parade float, and an inter-floor softball league.

Day Students' Executive Board

The main objectives of the Day Students' Club are having a definite voice in the Student Government Association and creating good will among the day and dormitory students through progressive activities. This year, due to increased enrollment and limited dormitory facilities, the club claims membership of forty per cent of the student body.

New furniture and vending machines have been placed in the North Hall day room, making it a pleasant haven where day students may lunch, relax, or study. In addition to improving its facilities, the club has plans to revise its constitution.

The Day Students' Club sponsored a Homecoming float, a Christmas party, an all-campus weekend, and a spring picnic.

The purpose of the Budget Committee is to allocate the money which is received through the student activity fee. Hearings are arranged so that each club and organization on campus has an opportunity to present its case for the funds which are felt necessary to function for the year. The allocations are made on the basis of the previous year's appropriation and the projected needs of the group. The Committee seeks to promote a well-balanced student activity program and to balance the budget.

Joseph S. Conaway, Advisor

Lambda Upsilon is Mansfield's chapter of the national honorary dramatic fraternity, Alpha Psi Omega. Entrance requirements are rigid and demanding. Membership is open to students actively and constructively participating in college dramatics. This group is considered the core of talent and interest in this field. The club has recently expanded membership and has undertaken several new projects, among them an assembly program and a "touring theater." High ideals in drama and a good stage production remain as its goals.

The English Club is concerned with promoting high standards and professional attitudes among future English teachers. A typical evening with the English Club members would find them in a lively discussion in interpretation of or in criticism of some literary work. As one of its projects, the English Club has undertaken to schedule a classical film each year. This year, for the first time, on M.S.C.'s campus, the club offered, by invitation, an evening of "Jazz and Poetry." In a carefully created, Bohemian atmosphere, various members read poetry to jazz accompaniment.

The Inter-Collegiate Conference on Government is dedicated to the principles of better government. The topics of politics and government are handled intelligently and formally, as indicated by the office of parliamentarian.

"Our purpose is not to preach, or even teach, but merely provide a means whereby students may learn together how their government operates." This, their motto, is taken from the state-wide organization.

The I.C.G. holds a convention each spring in Harrisburg where the delegates actively participate in model governmental procedures. Membership offers first-hand experience in politics and government and is open to all interested students.

The purpose of the forum is to offer a favorable atmosphere for intellectual discussion of contemporary developments and problems in the social science area. The topics are challenging and far-reaching. The members present their views and, many times, discuss long-range developments. Student reports relate actual experiences in government work. From time to time. resource people are invited to speak who contribute interesting views of current affairs.

Mansfield Open Forum presents an excellent opportunity for frank discussion of topics related to the broad field of social science.

Membership in the Music Education Club is composed of students and teachers in the music curriculum and also includes others on campus actively participating in music programs. Their monthly meetings are devoted to informing members of current teaching aids and of current music news. Social highlights of the club are the annual picnic, and the parties and dances which are held after the meetings.

The Newman Club, a member of the National Newman Club Federation and the Middle Atlantic Province, is open for membership to all Catholic students on campus. It is devoted to the spiritual, intellectual, and social interest of its members. Twice a year, once each semester, the club has its communion breakfast at which a noted speaker is present to comment on some contemporary topics of interest to the members. This year, one of the guest speakers was the Reverend Stephen F. Lackovic, secretary to the late Cardinal Stepinac, Archbishop of Croatia.

Omicron Gamma Pi is an affiliate of the National American Home Economics Association. Its purpose is to unite the students of the Department in closer fellowship and to acquaint them with opportunities in their field. The girls learn by personal experience and by sharing knowledge they have gained in completing individual summer projects.

The calendar of activities for the year is a full one. It includes a campfire, a banquet, a welfare project, a trip, several guest speakers, and a fashion show, the highlight of interest for students from other departments. An Omicron float in the Home-Coming parade and an Omicron-sponsored weekend also contribute to general campus activities.

The purposes of the Radio Club are many. First, it seeks to provide the students with radio programs. Also, it offers the faculty and administration a channel of communication. It functions as a workshop for those who are interested in the medium of radio. Finally, it informs listeners of events taking place at the college.

Among its projects for this year were a Radio Club weekend and a closed circuit radio station on campus which broadcasts five nights a week.

The S.C.A. is an organization designed to give the student an opportunity to advance in an awareness of his responsibilities as a Christian student and citizen. To this end, it sponsors such activities as vespers, discussion groups, Religion-in-Life Week, and a reception dinner for the local clergymen. S.C.A. grants scholarships to needy and deserving students. Funds are added to the treasury by efforts of ambitious members who operate concessions at athletic events and also a sandwich concession in North Hall.

Esquires

Esquires is made up of talented members chosen on the basis of their outstanding ability. Membership, which is on a competitive basis, is open to all male Mansfield students meeting the requirements of the club. Their performances are enjoyed by area high school students as well as the students at Mansfield State College.

Concert Wind Ensemble

The Concert Wind Ensemble is a select group of musicians taken from the entire student body. Any student who can meet the requirements of the ensemble is welcome to become a member. The music of the ensemble is pleasant to hear: they present assembly programs which are thoroughly enjoyed by all who attend.

This year they toured the Pittsburgh-Johnstown area in the spring and Lock Haven-Huntingdon area in the fall. They were honored to play at the annual P.M.E.A. convention in Harrisburg and at the regional P.M.E.A. festival held in Troy, Pennsylvania.

The music of the Campus Choralaires is that of seventy freshmen joining together to present delightful programs of choral singing. Members are selected from the freshman class: members from all curriculums are invited to join.

Their musical program this year included an unusual Christmas program and a spring program made up largely of baroque music. The Christmas program consisted of "He Came for Me" by Nelson. "Christmas Day" by Holst. and "Christmas Cantata" by Pinkham. David Spangler was at the organ and Susan Rush at piano.

The official accompanist for the group is Susan Rush. Mr. Fowler rehearses and conducts the chorus in performance.

Campus Choralaires

Advanced Chorus

The Advanced Chorus is one of the larger musical organizations on campus. Students in the music curriculum are required to participate in the activities of this group. Two concerts are presented annually, the Christmas program and the program offered during the spring Fine Arts Festival.

Opera Workshop

Opera Workshop provides experience in opera and musical stage performances. Included in this program are tours to other schools, where selections from musicals and operas are presented.

Each year Opera Workshop stages two major productions. This year's offerings were "Amahl and The Night Visitors," presented during the Christmas season, and "Brigadoon" in the Spring. A program is also provided for the Fine Arts Festival.

Any qualified students who meets the approval of the director may become a member.

College Community Orchestra

The Mansfield College Community Symphony Orchestra was reorganized this year under the direction of Professor Douglas Engelhardt. It is made up of a core of players from the college with supplementary instrumentalists coming from the Mansfield community, Troy, and the Corning Symphony Orchestra.

The symphony gave three excellent public performances during this year: an evening concert in November, an assembly concert in March, and a Sunday afternoon performance during the Fine Arts Festival.

The youngest fraternity on campus is that of Phi Sigma Epsilon. It was in September 1960, that steps were taken to have a chapter approved for our campus, and, on April 14, 1961, it was given official approval. The purpose of this fraternity is to promote fellowship among men students of higher educational institutions. Among its goals are those of encouraging cultural pursuits and fostering college spirit, as well as providing college homes for active members.

This year, Phi Sigma Epsilon created a prize-winning float for the Homecoming Day Parade. It also sponsored four all-campus weekends.

Membership is by invitation. It is offered to second semester freshmen and upperclassmen with academic averages of at least 2.00.

Football

The Mansfield football squad of the 1961 season produced a relatively successful season. With a new crop of freshmen and plenty of able-bodied veterans, Coaches Stelmack and Costello molded one of the better teams seen here at Mansfield. An excellent offensive team and a powerful defensive unit posed a considerable threat to all opponents.

Many individual stars were apparent. Quarterback Bill Roesch ranked eighth in the nation of small colleges, completing 51% of his passes for an average of 143 yards per game. Offensive tackle John Sukenik was honored with a Little-All American mention. Sophomore John Barrett proved to be very helpful in the place-kicking department. Looking back, it was a season filled with hard work, excitement, joys, and sorrows—all contributing to the eventful 1961 football season.

The 1961-62 basketball season was filled with the thrills and excitement that come with a tremendously successful team. The Mounties, led by Captain Dick DiBiaso, chalked up an impressive record of eighteen wins and one loss. Among the laurels achieved, Coach Gibson's men set the all-time scoring mark of 122 points while defeating Lycoming.

The nucleus of the team was composed of Dick DiBiaso, Jim Turner, Terry Crouthamel, Charley Griscavage, Tom Wallon, and Joe Russell.

The Mounties ended their regular season claiming the Pennsylvania State College Championship. Also, for the fourth straight year, Mansfield was invited to the District 30 N.A.I.A. playoffs.

Baseball

Team effort was the key that opened the door to the State College Championship for Coach Gibson's 1961 baseball team. The team, possibly the best in the history of Mansfield baseball, combined a high batting average (.327) with a highly respectable pitching staff to produce a well-balanced team capable of winning nine games while losing only one.

Terry Manning led the team in batting with a .411 average while Dave Russell, Gene Salsman, Dan Bills, Bill Roesch, Mac Morse, Dick Dewey, and Harlan Press added their slugging assistance to give the Mounts sixty-nine runs for the season. When the Mansfield hitters were stopped, the unbeatable pitching staff of Gene Massari, Jack Fetchkan, Jim Davis, Jim Tomallo, and Bud Hulser could be depended upon to hold the opponents down. For the 1961 season the pitching staff maintained an impressive earned-run average of 2.33.

An appropriate postscript to this championship season was the fact that two of the starters were signed to play in the professional circuits. Dave Russell signed with the Milwaukee Braves, as catcher, while Gene Salsman signed with the New York Mets, as outfielder.

The Mansfield golf team proved to have a good squad, golfing their way to a 5-2 overall record. The linksters golfed their heaviest schedule while competing in seven matches plus the state tournament.

Coached by Marion E. Decker, the golf team played their home matches at the Corey Creek Country Club. Six men received letters: Mike McNaney, John Weiss, Tom Rudy, Barry Jones, Joe Venskytis, and Richard Bieber. The first four men attended the Pennsylvania State College Tournament held at Shippensburg State College.

The Flashlight, organized some thirty-eight years ago, has since been the regularly published campus newspaper, bringing the important news events concerning the college as well as human interest items and humor in its features.

Until this year the paper was published monthly, but in the fall the staff stepped-up operations to publish bi-weekly. The staff is composed entirely of college students with an interest and background in journalism who write and prepare the paper for printing.

The Flashlight is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, and in 1961 won a first place honor rating in the latter's annual critical judging.
